A week out at the Farm

Giving children the unique opportunity to have hands on learning time on a working farm, are memories that can last a lifetime. It is through touching, seeing and interacting with the land, that children will understand where their food comes from. Bonus, they'll have fun while learning. The week long workshops include daily chores such as collecting eggs and brushing animals to learning about our big machines and what they do. How was hay baled before we had machines? What is a baby sheep called? How do plants drink? Each day will include classes around the farm and farm related crafts activities.
